Only 12% of police officers in the United States are women, and just 3% hold executive leadership positions. There is no data on the percentage of mother cops, making them an invisible minority in law enforcement.

Mother cops face unique challenges balancing their careers and families. This course provides law enforcement leaders with the knowledge, legal guidance, and leadership strategies to support them, improve retention, and foster a culture of inclusion.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND:

Supervisors, command staff, peer support members, policymakers, and any law enforcement professional looking to gain a deeper understanding of the unique challenges faced by mother cops, learn best practices for supporting pregnant officers, and develop actionable leadership strategies to create an inclusive work environment.
